LOCATE RICH CLAIMS IN EL DORADO CANYON

CALIENTE, Nev., May 29.—Theo. Weirick of Seattle. Wash, passed through camp yesterday en route to Los Vegas ranch; thence he will go south across the country to El Dorado canyon, near which point he is interested in mining claims on which a considerable amount of work was done in early days by prospectors in the sarly 50s. Special to The Tribune.

point he is interested in mining claims on which a considerable amount of work was done in early days by prospectors in the early 50s.

Mr. Weirick says that last summer, when he first went down in that country in company with Nels Stephens, an old-timer in Newada, they discovered a well-beaten trail, now overgrown with chapparel, leading from the Colorado river, near El Dorado ferry, up into the range enst of the river, a distance of about three miles, thence following the canyon for nearly a mile into a small box canyon, where they found evidences of former mining on a considerable scale. An old arasta, dismantied and weather washed, was located in the bottom of the guich, and broken tools were scattered around. The barrel of an old-time Kentucky rifle lay near the arasta, rusty and corroded as that of the fabled Rip Van Winkie after his long sleep. Careful research opened up a carefully concealed tunnel drifted into the mountain for a distance of nearly 100 feet, on a two-foot ledge of rich free gold ore, from which pleces were broken going into hundreds of dollars. These men located the claim and brought back to Seattle for assay a sack of ore going 560 in free gold.

The character of the ore is white honeycombed quartz, and the ledge lies between granite walls with clay on either side. As soon as the San Pedro road is compieted to Manvel these gentlemen propose opening up their mines and putting in the most modern equipment for the treatment of their ore.

The State Board of Equalization of Salt Lake City, together with Superintendent Henderson and Hon. C. O. Whittemore, counsel for the San Pedro, arrived here last night on a special and proceeded at once to the front, where they inspected the work recently completed for the road. The special returned this morning and the efficials were well pleased with the speed and efficiency of the Utah Construction company and Foreman Couway in grading and tracklaying westward. Barring any unforcesen accident the line will be completed to the Los Vegas ranch early in July, so far as grading is concerned, and the tracklayers will soon be able to complete their end of the work. There is but one bad stretch of ground between Moapa and the Los Vegas ranch, whate considerable rock work will have to be completed before the tracklayers can put down their steel. The special returned to Salt Lake today.

Frank Palmer has begun work on his free gold claim half a mile south of Cali-ente, sinking on the ledge.

OGDEN'S MANY RESORTS TO OPEN TODAY

Special to The Tribune. OGDEN, May 29.-Decoration day will witness the formal opening of the various esorts adjacent to Ogden. At no time in the past has there been such a variety of places for the pleasureseeker, or the resorts more thoroughly equipped to care for their patrons.

Ogden canyon is at the head in the matter of improvements. At the Oaks an elegant new cafe and restaurant is now in ourse of construction, and will be opened in about two weeks. It is located in an ideal spot across the river from the Oaks, underneath magnificent shade trees that fairly obscure it from viw.

At the Hermitage the new log hotel to be erected is under way, and will be opened within the month. The road through the canyon has been roiled and put in excellent condition, and is now as smooth as an aspekt newment.

The Utah Hot Springs also opens tomorrow with much celat. While the resort is open the year around, this is to be the first excursion of the season. Many improvements have also been made at this popular resort, but the most important to its patrons is its improved transportation facilities. New rolling stock has been provided including an engine, and the track vided, including an engine, and the track has been ballasted and put in a safe and ound condition.

Saturday evening Immense crowds thronged the resort then and today. Tomorrow a splendid programme has been provided for the Decoration day vieitor.

Utahna park, the new amusement garden, situated near the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Adams avenue, was formally opened to the public tonight. An excellent musical programme was provided and a big crowd marked the opening night.

The Ogden Canyon and Hot Springs company will be unable to open its new satitarium at the mouth of Ogden canyon by June 1, as was expected, on account of unexpected delays. It is likely, however, that another two weeks will see I doing business full blast.

General Freight Agent Chevers denies that he has received any petition from the freight handlers. Mr Chevers states that he knews nothing of any petition. Nevertheless such a move is on foot among the men, and it will likely be brought to his attention soon.

The residence of A. N. Robinson at Roy was burglarized Saturday. Two suits of clothes, a pair of shoes and a small amount of jewelry were taken.

REVENUE COLLECTORS MAKE GOOD HAULS

Special to The Tribune.

LEHI, May 29.-Two United States leputy revenue collectors have been down the line the past week. That they did business is attested by the swearing counenances of nearly every druggist and saloon man in Utah county and the counties south. They were in Lehl yesterday, and as a result one druggist sent in a check for $50 to Collector Callister, and another sent in a draft for $65. At American Fork one druggist remitted to the Collector's office $140, and a whisky merchant sent in $70, the other druggists and saloon men also sending in good-sized BUING Inspectors call on the druggists, ask to see the stock and, as is usual in all such stablishments, a small quantity of alco holic compounds, which are forbidden to be sold except under a revenue license, is be som except under a revenue license, is found.

The druggist complains that he must keep the stock to compound prescriptions. The inspectors then ask for the establishment's books, and in every case there are several charges made against customers for one or more of the ingredients that come under the ban of the law, and the result is that the evidence is considered clinching, and to avoid punishment of a more severe onaracter the effender is requested to send in to the Collector $12.50 for each charge made. In some cases, particularly during smallpox times, the $12.50 is multiplied a good many times; for, as is the case in Lehi, the quarantined families, when sending for their medicines, invariably would also include their order for the necessary stimulants that are used in such cases. The druggist simply as an accommodation would get the trandy, whisky, etc., from the saloon men for their customers and have it charged in connection with the other medicines, in most cases the saloons charging the druggist till the druggists's customers had paid him; but the inspectors ruled that this was a technical infraction of the law, and the druggists were compelled to pay, though under protest.

Saloons were held up on the proposition that they had retail licenses and were doing a wholesale business. The regulations provide that a wholesaler is one who sells more than seven gallons of beer or two gallons of whisky, etc., in one bill. In many instances the saloon men sell an eight-gallon keg of beer, and every time they were unfortunate enough to put the transaction on their books. Uncle Sam's representatives have made them pay $12.50. The whole scheme is simply technical and will undoubtedly be protested to the authorities at Washington, as the local collectors say they are but acting under directions from higher efficials.

A burgiar broke into the Branch Co-oplast night, flited nimself out with a new found. The druggist complains that he must

A burglar broke into the Branch Co-op last night, fitted aimself out with a new suit of clothes, underwear, hat, shoes, shirt, and then filled his pockets with watches and jewelry. The nightwatchman heard the glass break in the transom, but was unable to tell which store the crash came from. This was rather early in the evening, and an examination from the front of the business houses did not reveal anything unusual. The miscreant also took all the keys that he could find.

The Y. M. M. I. A. has leased the City payllion and grounds from the city. The association has organized a baseball team, with W. E. Evans as captain and Joseph Anderson as manager, and will pull off a series of games during the season with other county teams. The boys have ordered new suits, which will arrive in a few days, when the club will enter the County league for championship honors.
